

ROBERT RAUSCHENBERG FOUNDATION

ROBERT RAUSCHENBERG FOUNDATION ARCHIVES RESEARCH RESIDENCY 2025 APPLICATION GUIDELINES

AT A GLANCE

WHO SHOULD APPLY?	Individuals from any field, who can demonstrate a compelling need to use the archival materials housed onsite at the Robert Rauschenberg Foundation Archives in New York City.
RESIDENCY DATES	Spring: April 21 – May 30, 2025 Summer: July 14 – August 1, 2025 Fall: September 9 – November 7, 2025
RESIDENCY LENGTH	One – Three Weeks
FUNDS AVAILABLE	From $1,500 to $10,800 per residency depending on travel distance and residency length
DEADLINE	Friday, January 3, 2025, 11:59pm EST Please note, the foundation is not able to grant extensions or accept late submissions
AWARD NOTIFICATION	Mid-March 2025

OVERVIEW

The Robert Rauschenberg Foundation Archives, consisting of Robert Rauschenberg's personal papers and the records from his Florida and New York studios, is the most comprehensive body of information on the artist's life and career. In addition, the archives holds select materials on organizations, art movements, and collaborations in which Rauschenberg was involved.

The Archives Research Residency supports continued scholarly and investigative use of these materials by supporting individuals that demonstrate a compelling need to use the archives and addressing financial barriers that may prohibit onsite access to the Archives. The application is open to all individuals and all topics within the collection, thereby encouraging research opportunities that move beyond traditional art historical discourse.

In 2025, we're commemorating Robert Rauschenberg's 100th birthday by celebrating the artist's profound creativity, spirit of curiosity, and commitment to change. A year of Centennial activities revisits Rauschenberg through the eyes of our time, foregrounding his prescience and enduring influence on generations of artists and others pushing for social progress.

By opening Rauschenberg's legacy to present-day interpretation, the Centennial embraces different understandings, forges cross-disciplinary connections, and creates opportunities for critical exchange. Through these programs, we're moving Rauschenberg's ethos forward and reinforcing his relevance to artists, changemakers, and communities today and in the future.

ROBERT RAUSCHENBERG FOUNDATION

APPLICATION ELIGIBILITY

The Robert Rauschenberg Foundation (RRF) will provide one-time project-based support to scholars, academics, artists, and other researchers who can demonstrate a compelling need to use the archival materials onsite at the foundation and who may face financial barriers to visiting. To be eligible, applicants must:

- not have received a grant or other funding from RRF in the past 3 years
- be at the graduate level and above or equivalent

The application is open to U.S.-based and international individuals. International recipients are responsible for ensuring they can travel legally to the United States. The Foundation is unable to sponsor visas or other travel documents.

Priority will be given to independent researchers, projects related to underrepresented topics/audiences, and those with significant distance to travel. Present and former staff, consultants, and former archives research residents are ineligible.

ELIGIBLE PROJECTS / GRANT PURPOSES

RRF is interested in supporting wide and diverse use of the Rauschenberg Archives. The Archives Research Residency will provide partial support for research costs, expanding the range of individuals that are able to visit.

Projects can range from traditional to innovative:

- exhibitions and publications
- globalism and internationalism
- inspiration for personal art practice
- artistic collaboration and multi-disciplinary practices
- underrepresented topics and audiences

Projects can relate to any materials within the archives; projects do not need to focus on Rauschenberg. Creativity is encouraged. See our website for examples of past residents' topics.

RESIDENCY DATES

The one- to three-week residency will take place during one of three sessions:

- Spring: April 21 – May 30, 2025
- Summer: July 14 – August 1, 2025
- Fall: September 9 – November 7, 2025

Typical residency hours are Monday – Friday from 10:30 – 5:00. We are closed Saturdays and Sundays. In July and August, we are closed on Fridays.

ROBERT RAUSCHENBERG FOUNDATION

STIPEND AMOUNTS / TYPICAL EXPENSES

The Archives Research Residency will provide partial support for research costs ranging from $1,500 - $10,800 depending on travel distance and residency length. Residents should plan to spend four days to three weeks onsite and costs must be related to the time spent at the foundation. Funds are provided as a stipend and a budget is not required.

Stipend Amount

- $1,500 per week

Housing Supplement: available to residents 50+ miles from NYC

- Additional $2,100 per week

Airfare or Train: to and from NYC

- Booked and paid by Foundation

Total awarded based on travel distance and residency length

	One week	Two weeks	Three weeks
NYC resident	$1,500	$3,000	$4,500
US and International residents	$3,600	$7,200	$10,800

As the residency does not include housing, stipends and supplement are typically used to cover accommodations as well as local transit and other travel-related overhead.

Funds will be distributed two- to four-weeks prior to the start of the residency. Minimal reporting will be required at the end of the research period.

SELECTION CRITERIA

Each proposal will be reviewed based on criteria listed below and completeness of application. Prior to decisions, RRF may contact applicant to solicit additional information or clarification. Applicants are notified of RRF's decision in March 2025.

Application will request the following:

- Application Overview
 - Name, Address and Country
 - Academic or Institutional affiliation (if applicable)
 - Project Title and Summary (50 words or less).
- Project Narrative (500 words or less)
 - Clear, well-described project narrative
 - Anticipated outcome including the project's potential contribution to the researcher's given field and/or projects targeted for wide distribution
- List of materials from Rauschenberg Foundation Archives
 - Materials can be searched on the Foundation's archives collections and finding aids
 - See Guide to Searching and Requesting Research Materials for instructions
- Curriculum Vitae or Resume
- Preferred sessions (spring, summer, fall) as well as selection of a one-, two-, and/or three-week residency
- Optional: professional affiliations and links or uploads of previous work: websites, publications, writings, digital projects, etc.

ROBERT RAUSCHENBERG FOUNDATION

Priority will be given to:

- independent researchers for whom travel funding is not available
- applicant's travel distance
- projects that are well-formed and illustrate need for on-site archival research
- the project's potential contribution to the researcher's given field
- projects that are targeted for wide distribution or investigate under-represented topics/audiences

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Applications will be accepted starting Monday, November 11, 2024, via online application portal Submittable. Deadline to apply is Friday, January 3, 2025, 11:59pm EST. Successful applicants will be notified in March 2025.

Learn more at Frequently Asked Questions. Additional questions about the program and/or application can be directed to archives@rauschenbergfoundation.org.